we find a country with which we are intimately connected proposing to alter and restrict its finite about. 'Opinions are of the most contrary character, but whatever extent silver may full, one thing is cortain, that it will have n very disturbing effect on the trade between this Colony and India. Taking the returns for 1891, the trade between this Colony and India was $32,500,000; of that $23,500,000 were imports, and these of course will be very adversely affected. Of your imports the principal article is a ium. We know that the quantity of opium this year to be offered, for sale is considerably less than that in the year just closed. Under any circumstances the price of opium is likely to rise, and if you add tothat the eff-ol of the alteration in exchanges hat he early bird catches the worm I can only between India and here, the result may probably, be a very serious decline in the public revenue of the colony, so much so that it may possibly lead to the necessity of imposing that which it has never yet been necessary to introduce into these Settlements, direct taxation. I not that forward as a point which deserves to be taken into consideration. Another large item is that of rice, which will be equally aff cled; though no doubt in course of time fresh supplies would appear, the biatus would be filled from countries to the eastward. It is nonse entering into any discussion as to the policy pursued by India, or as to questions The competition of Saturday last for the long and theories connected with bimetallism. The one point we have to consider is whether the 800 900 Not H'cap Grand change contemplated in India will injuriously steps to protect ourselves. We are aware that exchange between these Settlements and silver countries is on a fixed basis. Taking a series of years, the last twenty for instance, the variations of exchange with India do not amount to more than 21 per cent., while between this and affect our trade, and whether we can take any China it is even less On the other hand the change in the same period on England is 4/6 to 2/104 (the average for 1892). With Java it has varied from 261 to 1.70. I find from figures taken out for me that the total trade of the Colony with gold-currency countries, placing Netherlands India in that category, was $113,285,000 and with silver currency countries $118,000,000, and if you ald to that, if this alteration in India is curried out, and if you transfer India from a silver to a gold country, you got a total of $145,750,000 and with diver countries $35.500,000. From species figures are emitted he value of billion and of inter-Settlement trade. And it has been suggested that this fixity of value which applies to trade with silver countries should be applied to gold countries, that is to say that the Chinese trader should be asked to share with the European merchant the inconvenience and uncertainty which attends the fluctuations of exchange. The manner in which it is proposed that this should be done would be to revert to the legal tender which was the only legal tender in these Settlements until the transfer in 1867, namely the rupes, and that to the rupes should be attached a fixity of value, which I saw the other day placed as low as 1/3, and that, with the measure of this coin, we should transact our daily business. The Mexican dollar would of course flow in and out, both for imports and exports, as readily as now and would form the medium of exchange with the neighbouring silver countries. Such a system exists in Shanghai, where the currency is sycee. and yet Mexican dollars are sent up country in large quantities to silk and cotton districts.

and the price rises or falls according to the demand of the market. A good many years ago, on the west coast of Sumatra, the Carolus dollar was the only one taken and it was bought at a large premium, so as to en.ble the Chinese and others to parchase crops. And quite recently we know Mexicans have been taken for the same purpose at a considerable premium. I have here a table of the principal countries with which we are trading, namely. Netherlands India, and I have taken these figures for the last 20 years. Our trade in Netherlands India in 1871 was $5,000,000. In 1973 it had risen to $14,500,000; but that and nothing to do with the question of exchange, which was practically the same. Those us who were residents in the Colony at that time know that it was in consequence of the first introduction of steam communication-of Chinese first becoming the owners of steam-v-tels. Then in 1877 the dollar having fallen i - n 4/4% to 4/0% the trade was $13,625,000, somewhat lower. In 1881 the trade was $24,750,000, the dollar having fallen 3d., and in 1887 although the dollar had fallen auother 7d. the trade had increased to $25.00 1,000. In 1889, which may be described as one of the bumper years of trade, the amount was 833,500,000 , the exchange being 3/13, and in 1891 it was 833,750,000, exchange being 3/33. I name these figures to show that the fluctuations of our trade and its increase is not entirely a matter of exchange, and if you regarded this place, as it undoubtedly is as a distributing centre, it seems probable that what traders would lose upon the one hand in the fixity of value they would gain in another in the matter of experts. But at our back there are the Native States and these Native States have grown enormously. It is said that their prosperity, and it doubtdecline of the dollar in gold. I do not wish to trouble you with any more statistics. but to show how this trade and revenue has 1891 it was $1,300,000. Selangor in 1882 was $300,500, in 1891 it was $1,800,000, and with respect to that I would point out that the increase has taken place with a gradually declining dollar and to the lowest point of 3/31. and farther, let me add, in the scheme put forward at home there is no proposal at all to advance the fixity of value above 3/-, or even lower. There are of course many difficulties in connection with this matter as was pointed out by Mr. Adamson at the meeting of the Straits Sattlements Association in London, but one point seems to me to be necassary for this Chamber to take into considera-

All these are very serious questions, and need to be carefully considered before any attempt is made to take a step in the direction which has been indicated at home. I would conclude what I have to say by reading a sentence which seems to me to place in a succinct form the real issue

"We conceive that the trade of Singapore and temperature 27° 7 shout 2.30 a. on the same 3.8 1.94, 1.43, 2.184, and seemed in he perfectly signed to have the same effect. But it did not that policy and declars that after a certain day lay.

There are no doubt many amongst you would like to see the Chamber commit itself to a positive declaration against my change in the our rency of this colony, and there are also others who would wish, should any change be made in the monetary system in India; to make a change in our local currency. The matter has, no doubt, been studied by many of you, but it has not been before the Colony for any length of time, and I think the Chamber need not dominit itself at mesent by giving the weight of its recommendation either in one direction or the other. The a cond resolution to be proposed to you goes as fer. I think, as we can possibly go. Speaking persometh I think we must have very engent rea- or rankay netween the tinus and or rankay diseases are rapidly and permanently elect when leaving Shanghai; fresh monsoon and some for making any change. We all know the Settlements are not producers, and therefore what we expert is first imported by no. What effect, we all naturally ask, will a gold ourrency, or a flotitious silver currency—a currency not based on the intrinsic value of its legal tender-have on those countries which send us the goods we export? If I may express an opinion I should say very little any at all, provided the Mexican dollar is allowed to be imported and dealt in as a commodity. A dealer sending us goods from say Rhio, would under a gold currency or a fictions silver currency get less money in that currency but he would be able to exchange his legal money for the Mexican dollar current in his district, and in so exchanging would regain in out of the straight. This was due to a crack or "sheer" which crossed the railway bank at an angle of about 18 degrees exactly at the place where each crack had been contracted. This crack, it appears, bears a little east of the meridian, passes through the old bazsar near Chaman fort, and, according to native reports, extends across the main range of the Khwaja Amran, eighteen miles away. The fact clearly established by the shortening of the railway rack is that the earth's crust has contracted 24 feet in the vicinity of the Kheiak. This will be good news for those scientists who are on the watch for facts to support the theory of the gradual contraction of the earth.
